

INTERNSHIP LEARNING NON PROFIT MUSEUM OF MOTHERHOOD

Internships: Museum of Motherhood

Supervisor Name: M. Joy Rose, Director

Location: 538 28th St. N. St. Pete in the Arts Enclave of Historic Kenwood

Job Title: Guest Docent & Community Outreach Internship

Purpose: The Museum of Motherhood seeks to actively enhance student's educational experiences, preparing them for real life situations and future employment. We are an exhibition and education center concerned with the interdisciplinary study of mothers, fathers and the evolution of family.

Duties and Responsibilities:

- Act as liaison between the general public and the museum
- Learn how to greet museum visitors and give tours
- Network with campus professors and students to organize class trips (for extra credit)
- Encourage feedback from visitors and craft reports based on responses
- Draft correspondence between local institutions and the museum
- Assist in creating new programming
- Create and implement social media posts

Learning Goals:

- Become familiar with the social, cultural, and public health issues families face
- Learn about mothers, fathers, and families from an interdisciplinary perspective
- Practice both written and oral job skills
- Maintain a professional appearance while interacting with the general public
- Research and connect with local community partners
- Form relationships with St. Pete's abundant arts and services resources
- Gain social media experience

Time Commitment: 5-20 hours per week

Requirements: Students should like interacting with people and be eager to learn new information in a friendly setting. Some writing skills and an ability to think critically are essential.
